MURDER CHARGE FILED AGAINST B. D. MASON, 17

CCC Enrollee Is Accused of Causing Nathaniel Sprowal's Death.

VARIED STORIES ARE REPORTED

Bert D. Mason was held for November court on a charge of murder, following a hearing this afternoon before Justice of the Peace John C. Shealer. Seven witnesses, including Trooper Hochreiter, testified. Mason was returned to the county jail, where he is being held without bail.

A charge of murder was lodged against Bert DeLancey Mason, 17-year-old CCC enrollee, this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock before Justice of the Peace John C. Shealer by Trooper John L. Hochreiter, of the local sub-station of the state police. Mason is charged with the killing of Nathaniel Sprowal, 19, Philadelphia, during a fight at CCC camp, No. 1, Wednesday afternoon.

Sprowal died a half hour after he had been struck on the left temple with a brick that police say Mason had admitted aiming at the victim. Sprowal died as he was being admitted to the Annie M. Warner hospital. An autopsy performed later in the evening revealed that death had resulted from a fracture of the skull.

Mason was brought to the office of the local justice and after the charge had been laid, the negro was given an immediate hearing. Six fellow enrollees at the CCC camp had been subpoenaed by the police to appear at the hearing. Mason has been a prisoner at the county jail since his arrest a short time after Sprowal's death.

Stories Conflict
Decision to lodge the charge of murder followed a conference between state police and District Attorney John P. Butt after five or six witnesses to the fight at the camp had been closely questioned at state police headquarters here Thursday afternoon by Trooper Hochreiter and Captain Paul K. Monaghan, camp commander.

The youths questioned Thursday gave statements that varied in detail but that conflicted directly with the confession given police by Mason the evening of the fatality. Witnesses Thursday said that they had seen Mason chase Sprowal part way across an open field as he threw bricks at the negro, whom he had pictured to police as his tormentor for weeks at the camp. One of the youths said Mason had a piece of iron pipe in his hand as he pursued Sprowal, while others said Mason had used only bricks as weapons.

Among the group questioned was one youth who stated positively that he had heard Mason call Sprowal a name. Mason denies that he had used an ugly name in referring to Sprowal.

Mason "Described"
The picture of Mason, drawn by the youths who the prisoner says "agitated" the fight between the two, was that of an angry sobbing boy "looking wild" when he flung the missiles. The distance separating the assailant and his victim was variously estimated at from 25 feet to 12 yards.

Mason has told police that Sprowal started an argument with him as they went to a camp woodland on extra-duty about 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and that the trouble between them was agitated by the youths who accompanied them. He said he was struck by Sprowal and flung bricks in self-defense until they were separated by companions and returned to their work. Then angered by the taunts of the other youths, Mason said he threw a brick at the group and then aimed a second missile at Sprowal, who fell unconscious as the brick found its mark.

Seeks Debate on 2 'Political Issues'

George D. Sheely, Oxford township, Townsend nominee for congress from this district, said today he will challenge District Attorney John P. Butt, democratic chairman of Adams county, to a public debate on the administration social security measures vs. the Townsend plan on some date before October 30. Sheely says that if Butt accepts he will secure some prominent Townsendite, probably Robert Frisbee, of York, to meet the democratic chairman on a public platform.

Asked today by a reporter for The Gettysburg Times if he would engage in such a debate, Mr. Butt replied in the negative and added, "It's not a debatable question."

Papal Secretary on 'Vacation'

He would not deny, however, he expected to "watch over" a situation in which the Holy See was deeply interested. (Associated Press Photo)

VETS INVITED TO COLOR FETE

South Mountain Legion Post Arranges First Presentation in State.

Local war veterans' posts have been invited to attend the first presentation of colors in a regular United States army military post of Pennsylvania at the Carlisle barracks, Saturday, October 24, at 4:45 p. m.

The colors will be presented to the South Mountain post, No. 574, American Legion, of Mt. Holly Springs. A young woman, whose name will be announced later, will present the colors to General M. A. W. Shockley, barracks commander, who in turn will present them to a state officer of the American Legion. Lester J. Miloy, commander of the Mt. Holly Springs post, will receive the colors for his organization.

It is expected that 250 visiting officers will attend the ceremony along with many state dignitaries. Preceding the presentation a full dress parade and review of the first medical regiment will be held before General Shockley. General Shockley who assumed command at the barracks on November 30, 1935, will retire October 30 and will be succeeded temporarily by Col. Herbert Gebner, senior officer.

The following band concert by the medical school band will be given at 3:30 o'clock: March, mixolydian; Brown; overture, Orpheus; Offenbach; caprice, "The Yankee Girl"; Tobani; American Patrol; Meacham; medley, home songs; Schumann; minuet, Beethoven; grand fantasia, Rollison; around the camp fire songs; Seredy; march, "Stars and Stripes Forever"; Sousa; "The Star Spangled Banner."

Stationing Committee Emphasizes Longer Pastorates; Emmerheiser in Taneytown.

Dallastown, Oct. 9 (AP)—Emphasizing the importance of longer pastorates, the stationing committee of the 147th session of the Pennsylvania annual conference of the United Brethren church, Thursday made only five changes in the charges under its jurisdiction. The committee's report was the final business session this week in Bethlehem church, here.

Dr. H. D. Boughter was changed from Fayetteville to Dover; the Rev. D. K. Reisinger from Dover to Greenmount, Maryland; the Rev. Barry Zech to Fayetteville; the Rev. R. A. Strausbaugh from Greenmount to Shiremanstown to succeed the Rev. J. Frank Snyder, who asked to be retired, and the Rev. Paul D. Emmerheiser to the Taneytown charge to succeed the late Rev. I. M. Fridinger, who died in August.

The Rev. J. Frank Snyder, who was placed on the supernumerated list this year, served almost forty-seven years in the pulpit.

Mechanicsburg was selected as the place for the 1937 conference.

Miss Nancy Keith To Wed on Oct. 30

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Keith, Carlisle street, have issued invitations for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Nancy McCurdy Keith, to Dr. Carl Harold Johnson, of Philadelphia, on Friday evening, October 30, at 8 o'clock, in the Gettysburg Presbyterian church.

Following the ceremony a reception will be held at the Keith home.

Democratic Club Formed at College

Officers Are Elected and Committees Named at Organization Meeting

The democratic club of Gettysburg college was organized and officers were elected Thursday evening by a group of interested students meeting in Weldensall hall.

Henry S. Boehner called the meeting to order and a short talk was given by Robert Sigler, district manager of the college democratic clubs at Dickinson, Bucknell, Wilson and other schools. The president of the Dickinson college democratic club, Thomas Myers, then explained the organization and aims of that club.

At the conclusion of Myers' explanation the Gettysburg club elected officers. J. Richard Myers was named president; Henry M. Hartman, vice president, and Henry George Springer, secretary.

The newly-elected officers appointed the following two committees: Publicity committee, Henry S. Boehner, chairman; George M. Leader and James W. Schwartz, and membership committee, Philip Rebert, chairman; Louise von Bosse, Lorraine M. Boyer, Charles Custer and Nathan Sklar.

The executive committee consists of the president, vice president and secretary of the club.

It was decided that the next meeting of the club will be held next Thursday evening in Weldensall hall at 7 o'clock.

To Get Hearing On Two Charges

Raymond E. Shriver, 45, Bigler-ville road, was arrested Thursday evening by Deputy Sheriff Daniel J. Wolff on charges of desertion and non-support and issuing a worthless check.

The desertion charge was laid by his wife, Nettie, and the check charge by Quintin Topper, near Fairfield.

Both informations were placed before Justice of the Peace John C. Shealer. Shriver was released under $300 bail for hearings before Justice Shealer Saturday, October 24.

TWO INJURED AS CAR ROLLS OVER

Local Negroes Treated Here After Crash on Emmitsburg Road; 2nd Driver Goes On.

Two Gettysburg negroes, Stanley Marshall, 26, and Raymond Williams, 21, received minor injuries in an automobile accident six miles south of here on the Emmitsburg road Thursday evening about 7:45 o'clock. The car in which they were riding was completely demolished.

Marshall who was driving south at the time the crash occurred said that a car traveling in the same direction had caught the left front of his car as it passed, causing the Gettysburg machine to run off the road. Marshall said he was driving about 30 miles an hour when the collision occurred.

Marks on the highway showed that the car had traveled a distance of about 500 feet along the right side of the road, struck a culvert, rolled over several times and came to rest against a telephone pole. The driver of the other car did not stop Marshall said.

Marshall received bad bruises of the right leg and contusions of the shoulders and chest. Williams suffered bruises of the chest. Both were brought to the Annie M. Warner hospital by passing motorists where they were treated and discharged.

Corporal J. G. Warren, of the local substation of the highway patrol investigated.

Auto Forced Off Road; Woman Hurt

A woman was slightly injured Thursday afternoon when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband in the Susquehanna trail near Duncannon was forced off the road and crashed into the head wall of a culvert.

The driver of the car, state highway patrolmen of the Duncannon substation said, was John W. Fry, of Gettysburg. Mrs. Fry suffered slight lacerations of the face and head and was treated at the office of a Duncannon physician.

Fry told the patrol that he was forced off the road as he was attempting to pass a truck.

KILLED AS HIS TRACTOR PLUNGES DOWN SHAFT

Lancaster, Oct. 9 (AP)—A tractor operator plunged to his death with the machine Thursday down an elevator shaft from the fifth floor of the Armstrong Cork company plant.

The tractor, driven by James L. Moser, 23, crashed through the door to the shaft and fell to the ground floor sixty feet below. Moser's skull was fractured.

The Mite society of St. James Lutheran church organized at a meeting this week. Officers elected were as follows: President, Mrs. E. A. Weaver; first vice-president, Mrs. William Conover; second vice-president, Mrs. C. B. Dougherty; secretary, Mrs. John McDonnell; treasurer, Mrs. M. E. Zinn.

FIREMEN MARCH AT CONVENTION

35 Members of Blue and Gray Band Lead Local Men in Williamsport Parade.

More than 60 members of the Gettysburg fire company marched Thursday afternoon in the state firemen's convention parade at Williamsport.

Clad in their new navy blue, silver-trimmed uniforms, the Gettysburg delegation led the eighth division of the procession. Directly ahead of the firemen marched 35 members of the Blue and Gray band of Gettysburg.

Thirty-six hundred firemen from all sections of the state paraded as the annual state convocation came to a close. A crowd estimated at 60,000 men, women and children lined the four-mile course to watch the spectacle which required two hours to pass a given point. There were 63 pieces of fire apparatus and 38 musical units in the parade.

A number of the local firemen returned to Gettysburg Thursday evening. The others reached here today.

Hospital Report

Mrs. Dewey Bucher, Orrtanna, and Mrs. Arthur Cluck, of Bendersville, were admitted as patients to the Annie M. Warner hospital Thursday. Betty Mayberry, Breckenridge street, and Irene Hilty, Fifth street, were discharged today.

Fred Krimbring was treated for a concussion of the brain suffered Thursday when he fell and hit his head while working on the annex of the Gettysburg high school building.

Stanley Marshall, South street extended, received treatment Thursday evening for contusions to his right leg. Benjamin Seiss, 39 Baltimore street, was treated for a fractured left index finger sustained Thursday when a wrench dropped on his hand. Courtland Kanzinger, a student at Gettysburg college, was treated for a laceration to his head suffered when he fell Thursday. Roy Warren, Fairfield, received treatment for two fractured toes on his right foot today after which he was discharged.

Fascists Take San Martin; 36 Miles From Madrid

(Copyright 1936, By Associated Press)
With the fascist armies at San Martin in the de Valeiglesias, Oct. 9.—Tired fascist legionnaires charged this peaceful village today and tore the lock off the town jail, to release, among other hostages held by the retreating government forces, three young Madrid girls of excellent family.

Imprisoned for weeks, the senioritas were almost too weak to stand. They told a pathetic story.

Daily, they said, they were fearful of execution.

This was but one incident of the dramatic capture of this strategic and important town 36 miles west of Madrid.

Two columns of legionnaires and Moors smashed their way to Almorox, 12 miles distant in less than 12 hours.

It was a day of bitter fighting with insurgent planes, again unopposed in the air, raining bombs and insurgent artillery displaying remarkable efficiency.

PLANK PROPERTY IS TRANSFERRED

Settlement of 6 State Charges To Be Asked at Hearing Today.

With the filing of a deed in the office of the register and recorder transferring title in the Race Horse alley property of J. Jere Plank to the Times and News publishing company, a settlement will be asked this afternoon of the charges that have been pending against Plank since last summer.

Last July Plank was charged with six violations of the state board of health regulations by Erie R. Deardorff, borough health officer. The Race Horse alley tenement house, owned by Plank, was the subject of the charges.

Plank failed to appear for a hearing at successive dates that were set by Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore. Four postponements have been granted. The last time set is 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Eugene V. Bullett, Esq., borough solicitor, who prepared the information that were filed against Plank, said this afternoon that he will ask Mr. Deardorff and Justice Baschore to agree to drop the charges if Plank will pay the costs of the case.

G.B. Aughinbaugh, Town Policeman, Fatally Stricken In Williamsport

He Also Was High Constable; Heart Attack Caused Death.

COUNTY AUDITOR FOR TWO TERMS

George Boyer Aughinbaugh, 56, high constable of Gettysburg, a former Adams county auditor and a member of the Gettysburg borough police force for more than 15 years, died suddenly of a heart attack Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock in Williamsport as he prepared to return to Gettysburg after marching in the parade at the annual state firemen's convention.

A few minutes before he was stricken, he had been conversing with Burgess Wilbur J. Stallsmith, Officer Charles W. Culp, Jr. and Harry J. Troxell, who were to ride with Mr. Aughinbaugh on the return trip to Gettysburg in Burgess Stallsmith's car. As he walked along the side of a garage near the Elks hotel, where the Gettysburg delegation had convention headquarters, the local officer collapsed on the sidewalk and was dead when his companions reached him.

A physician was summoned but could do nothing except confirm the death.

Took Part in Parade

The heart attack occurred only a short time after Mr. Aughinbaugh and his companions had completed a five-mile march in the convention parade. The local officer appeared to be in excellent spirits and usual health at the conclusion of the parade and had walked to the Elks' hotel to secure the suitcases of the four local men. The valises had already been placed in the Stallsmith car which was being driven along side of the garage when Mr. Aughinbaugh's death occurred.

The body was removed to the Page undertaking establishment and word of the death was telephoned to Gettysburg where it was received by the deceased's only daughter, Miss Anna Aughinbaugh, as she worked at the switchboard of the local telephone exchange.

Word of the officer's death came as a distinct shock to residents of Gettysburg and this community where he was widely known. A robust figure, he had always appeared to be in the best of health. Members of the family stated that his health had been generally good, excepting for a heart condition from which he had suffered about three years ago.

Mr. Aughinbaugh had gone to Williamsport with his three companions Tuesday afternoon on special leave from his duties as borough policeman.

A native of Gettysburg, he was a son of the late William and Sarah Boyer Aughinbaugh. He spent his early life in Gettysburg, but later resided for a number of years in Straban township. For the last 23 years he had resided at his late home, 526 York street.

On February 17, 1902, he married Mary Harman, who survives him. He had observed his fifty-sixth birthday anniversary August 12.

Mr. Aughinbaugh was elected Adams county auditor in 1911 and was re-elected for his second consecutive term four years later. In 1919 he received the republican nomination for re-election but was defeated at the general election in November.

He served as a deputy sheriff under the late John and Howard J. Hartman when they held office as sheriffs of Adams county.

He had served several terms as high constable of Gettysburg, a position he held at the time of his death, and for many years had been a deputy constable under the late Charles H. Wilson of the first ward. He was senior member of the borough police force.

An Active Republican

Mr. Aughinbaugh was a former president and secretary of the Gettysburg fire company and held memberships in the state firemen's association, the Southeastern firemen's association and in the Adams county firemen's organization.

He was a member of Good Samaritan lodge of the Free and Accepted Masons, the Gettysburg series of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and Battlefield council, No. 717, Order of Independent Americans.

Always an active republican, Mr. Aughinbaugh had previously served as a member of the county republican committee.

LEWIS DIRECTS
NEWEST PLAY

Sinclair "Red" Lewis Supervises Production of Second Play.

Loquacious, stoop-shouldered Sinclair Lewis, as solidly homespun as a hickory fence, is back on Broadway with a chore to perform, and there's a chortle in it for somebody.

"Red" as everybody calls him, is supervising the production of his second venture at playwriting, and if you should happen to wander over to the gloomy old Adelphi any afternoon or evening, you'll probably find him loitering around, interviewing actors. They're putting his dynamite-laden novel, "It Can't Happen Here," on the boards, and presently there'll be companies all over America presenting it.

This is where the whoop comes in. Several months ago one of the major film companies had a special script prepared and was training its cameras on the set when all production was suddenly and inexplicably called off. Mussolini objected, it seems, on the grounds that the Fascist form of rule would be held up to ridicule, and the film powers didn't want to strain any diplomatic relations between the United States and Italy.

Sidney Howard, one of Broadway's straight-from-the-shoulder authors, who had written the screen play, came back to town snorting disgust and maintaining that the Hays office had shown the white feather.

Now the United States government, through the Federal Theatre project, is producing the play itself, and as a result every film company on the coast is after the screen rights. Jack Moffitt, former writer on the Kansas City Star, collaborated with Lewis on the dramatization. Moffitt used to write theater stuff for the K. C. paper and in between reviews he turned out scenarios for the screen. His first hit, as I recall, was "The Eagle's Nest," an air opus which starred Richard Barthelmess and gained him an "in" with the story departments of those coast studios. Now he and "Red" are getting the new show organized. They'll receive $1400 a week from the government as long as the play runs.

Lewis is still a comparative novice around the theater, but everybody is crazy about him. He jumps into rehearsals with the enthusiasm of a veteran troupier.

Start the small-talk rolling and he'll sit there and entertain you for hours, but he doesn't like to discuss his novels very much. He has a trick of detouring the conversation every time they're brought up.

One has to hand it to old "Red" for a grand sense of humor and a retentive sort of memory that catalogues the most casual of incidents. Two years ago, when his play about the Civil War was in production (something happened to change their plans and the play never was premiered) he tossed his producers into consternation by dropping out of sight for several days. They searched the town for him, but all they ever learned was that he had checked out of his hotel and gone away. Then Lewis came striding back into the theater. "Well," he explained, "I haven't been anywhere just browsing around."

"Red" recalled this incident when he reached for his hat after a session of looking at actors the other day. "Don't worry," he told the assistant producer. "I'll be back. Honest, I'm just going out to see a

Ex-Cop, "Real Heir to Throne"
Campaigns to Oust King Edward

By ROGER D. GREENE
London, (AP)—A more or less royal proclamation, signed by Britain's throneless "King Anthony the First," has restored the long-lost American "colonies" to English sovereignty.

"It was all a mistake about George the Third," explained King Anthony, otherwise Anthony Hall, a former police inspector in the Shropshire constabulary, in a recent interview here.

"He had no right to the throne. His name was just plain George Guelp. Therefore, I, Anthony, legitimate successor to the crown won by my ancestor, Henry VIII, at the battle of Bosworth, hereby nullify George Guelp's actions in losing the American colonies.

"If my ancestors had been on the throne at the time of the American revolution, there would never have been any trouble. The colonies would still be living happily under the flag of the Mother Country.

Says Sovereignty Hoax
The 38-year-old King Anthony, who lived for several years in San Francisco, Calif., claims that the whole system of English sovereignty has been based on a hoax ever since the death of Queen Elizabeth in 1603.

"The real King James VI of Scotland, son of Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots, died in infancy," says Anthony, "and a changeling, James Erskine, was placed in the dead king's cradle and brought up as James VI of Scotland and James I of England.

"In 1630, a coffin containing the bones of the real King James was discovered in the walls of Edinburgh castle, but the bankers hushed the matter up.

"In view of this fact, it is quite clear that the Wettins, or Windsors as they began to call themselves during the World War, are not of the royal blood of England. Consequently, the throne should go back to the Tudor line, of which I am the ninth in the direct male line of descent."

The self-styled "King Anthony the First," who gets into trouble with the police only occasionally, having been arrested twice and summoned five times, is engaged in a feverish campaign to bring about the "restoration" before next May, when Edward VIII will be crowned. He addresses street meetings three daily, seven days a week, speaking to large and grinning crowds alongside the statue of Henry Irving, near the age-old Garrick theater.

By Coronation day, he expects to have 50,000 followers and stage a counter-demonstration.

Now that King Anthony I has restored the American colonies, he doesn't quite know what to do with them.

"I'm too busy now to think much about it," he said. "Still, I understand Americans would like to have a king, and I'll have to give the matter my attention immediately after the restoration."

If he can't get around to it personally, he added, he might have one of his three brothers act as "assistant king" for the United States. Two of them live in San Francisco, he said.

Laughs At Jibes
Well-dressed, with keen bright eyes and a cultivated accent, Anthony was the youngest police inspector in England before he took up his restoration campaign. He surprised his senior officers by writing books on police methods and fingerprints, and W. J. Makin, English essayist, has called him "a man of undoubted charm."

He takes his claims in all seriousness, but he realizes some people think he is slightly "barmy," as he put it, and with high good humor he accepts the laughter of the crowds.

"It doesn't make any difference if they laugh at me," he said, with cheery philosophy. "I'm the king. Some day I'll live in Windsor castle."

DANCE ABOARD SHIP
WHILE FLAMES RAGE

Nice, France, Oct. 9 (AP)—Passengers landed from the Dutch motorship Marnix Van St. Aldegonde Thursday night and told how they had danced and made merry while fire raged in the hold of the ship Wednesday night.

The fire was extinguished, and the ship put in to Ajaccio, after a race against the flames.

The passengers said they were unaware of the fire eating through a cargo of matches in the hold, and danced and played deck games while the vessel raced toward the nearest port.

Their first indication something was amiss, the passengers said, came when they awakened in the harbor of Ajaccio instead of in Ville Franche where they had expected to land.

CHINA WILL TRY FORCE
IN LINING UP UNIONS

Nanking (AP)—China is threatening the use of sanctions against all Chinese trading companies and firms which refuse or fail to join officially recognized trade or firm unions.

Some kind of control over all business organizations has become necessary now that an effort is to be made by the government to collect income and corporation taxes, and to require all male civilians to submit to elementary military training.

In return for joining semi-official unions, firms and companies are to be allowed to elect their own representatives to the national assembly which will soon launch China's constitutional regime.

CHANGES BRING
MANY SUCCESS

Stars of Radio and Stage Reached Success After Changing Careers.

By GEORGE TUCKER

New York. — There's an ancient wheeze about the motorman who took his trolley out one morning and came back in the evening with the highest total of receipts ever taken on that line. "How in the world did you do it?" exclaimed the startled officials.

"Well," said the fellow, business wasn't so good on the road where you sent me so I switched the car to Broadway."

Of course, such things are only possible in jokes, but in the amusement field many noted personalities owe their continued success to the adoption of a new line. And the financial pay-off hasn't been bad, either. Let's take a look at a short listing.

Phil Baker gained his first stage assignment as a pianist, but soon switched to the accordion and gags. Smooth sailing for Phil ever since.

Jack Benny started life as a violinist, but he switched talents after starving for a few years, and radio is none the worse off. Can you imagine James Melton tooting a saxophone? That's how it all began, but a college professor (this was at Vanderbilt) urged him to give his voice a chance, and now he is one of the highest paid stars.

Frank Black might have been a chemist. Abe Lyman would be a taxi driver and so would Paul White-man. But they learned how easy it was to swing batons, and thereafter eschewed swinging steering wheels. And to Black, the science of song has been much more lucrative than the science of chemistry.

Every time Phil Lord passes a barbershop he tips his hat. Having his curls trimmed in one one day, he listened to a program extolling the beauties of New England, and quirked at its insincerity. This gave him the hunch to sit down and write the Seth Parker stories, which gave him entree to the radio field. Curiously enough, his new sponsor is a manufacturer of shaving creams and other whisker-destroying equipment.

Bob Hope was an auto mechanic in a small garage and used to crack gags while selling gas and oil. His friends called him "Hopeless" because he was always telling the world he was going to get somewhere some day. So he went into radio and now—you guessed it—his program is sponsored by one of the big oil companies.

When radio did come along, Frank Black was one of those industrious fellows who earned his living manufacturing phonograph records. Since the death knell for records seemed to have been sounded, he immediately hopped into the new racket that threatened to destroy his livelihood. And that's all—except that today he is the musical head of one of the greatest broadcasting systems in the world.

Jackie, a Bowery character, isn't permitted to try his skill in the local shooting galleries any more. He's too good. After breaking 50 consecutive birds, and collecting a $25 wager, the proprietor did a little research work on him. Jackie, it appears came by his talents honestly. He used to be a sharp shooter in a circus. Now the boss of the stand has augmented his warning to stay away by erecting a sign: "No professionals eligible."

Mexico's Jobless
Unite and Seek
Government Help

Mexico, D. F. (AP)—Mexico's jobless are following the lead of those who have jobs, and organizing.

A new group called the "Bloc of Unemployed Workers of the Federal District" recently petitioned President Lazaro Cardenas for help, declaring "we have organized to form a single unit that will demand the social justice to which we are entitled."

Heading the "syndicate of the idle," as it was promptly dubbed, is Manuel Montiel Blancas, as secretary general. Other officers are secretaries of labor, of the treasury and of the exterior.

In its petition to President Cardenas, the bloc said it considered unemployment due to "patent lack of economic balance caused, among other things, by failure to develop new sources of wealth."

"There are various sources of wealth," it continued, "that with the initiative of the government and the collaboration of workers could resolve the problem that weighs upon us, at the same time that it would be an action toward labor's autonomy through which workers' conscience of economic responsibility would be shaped."

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Terence Mahony has walked knowingly into Ambrose Lawson's trap, in an effort to bring that worthy and his gang of kidnappers and rope runners to justice. But he is mistaken for a mysterious Mr. Brown by an equally mysterious Irishman, and has to fight for his life. Then police arrive, and Terence and the Irishman, allies for the moment, escape over the rooftops. One pursuing policeman fails to the ground; while the crowd watches him, the two fugitives slip down through a house, to the street.

Chapter 23

FATTY BASSETT

The injured constable had been removed into a house to await the arrival of an ambulance, and the constables who had been attending to him were hurrying up the street to join in the hunt. The danger now was that, even in that crowd, the tall hulking figure and ugly features of the Irishman would be recognized. He evidently realized the danger.

"You slip along, Mister; don't stay with me; let me take my chance on my own," he urged Mahony. "The cops aren't likely to know you, I'm thinking, you'll get away much better without me."

But Mahony wasn't having any of that.

"I'm damned if I will," he said. The Irishman grinned.

"Right you are, me boyo," he replied. "But I'm thinking you'd do better . . ."

He broke off as a dirty hand plucked at his sleeve. The hand belonged to a little, squinting bow-legged man, dressed in a disreputable check suit and a red muffler.

"Get along to Fatty Bassett's," said a hoarse voice. "Slip away quietly, mate. I'll give the cops something to think about while you're gettin' away."

The bow-legged man edged away from them through the crowd and suddenly raised his voice in an excited shout.

"There they go! Look, on that roof! I seen one of 'em dodge be'ind that chimney stack!" he yelled shrilly, and raised a pointing hand.

"Where? Where?" A dozen voices asked the question. A police sergeant grasped the bow-legged man by the arm.

"You saw them?" he demanded. "I seen one of 'em, large as life, be'ind that there chimney stack," declared the bow-legged man in a voice of excited conviction. "E popped 'is 'ead out, took a decko, and off again. I seen 'im as plain as I see me 'and."

The sergeant ran in the direction of the house at which the bow-legged man had pointed. For the time being the attention of the crowd and police was directed towards that house. That gave Mahony and the Irishman the opportunity to slip out of the crowd and make their way along a dark side street.

But the danger was not over yet; the police in the whole district would be on the lookout for the two fugitives. For five minutes they dodged cautiously about the dark, narrow streets, keeping a wary eye open for prowling policemen. Then they drew into the shelter of an arch overhanging a massive gateway.

"This way," said the Irishman. "Follow me."

He led Mahony along a narrow passage that ran between the back of a warehouse and a row of small, grimy back gardens. Half-way along the passage he turned off to the left, crossed a small garden, and descended half a dozen stone steps into a dark area.

In front of him was a door, the kitchen door of a house. He rapped on it sharply three times, paused, and rapped once again. The door opened very slightly, and a gruff, suspicious voice said: "Who's there?"

"Barney Flynn and another," answered the Irishman. "The cops is out after us."

"Come in," said the gruff voice, and the door opened wider.

They entered through a dark pantry into a frowsy kitchen lighted inadequately by a flickering gas jet. Three men were seated at the kitchen table drinking beer and playing with a greasy pack of cards; another chair and mug had obviously just been left by the man who had opened the door. The three men looked up as Mahony and Barney entered. One of them, a very fat, disreputable-looking rascal, spoke.

"Lo, Barney," he said. "Wot 'e'll you doin' over 'ere? I thought you was lyin' low in Joe Walton's doss-house over the other side of the river."

"I was so," answered the Irishman. "But I was given the tip where Mr. Brown was to be found tonight, and I slipped across the water to see if I could get me money."

"And who's yer pal?" asked the fat man. "I don't remember to 'ave seen 'im before."

"Why, 'tis Mr. Brown himself," answered Barney with some pride. "We had a bit of a friendly argument, and the spalpeen laid me on the flat of me back. After that the police came and we got out by the roof."

"Wot, 'e laid you on the flat of your back!" exclaimed one of the other men. "Wot with?"

"With his fist," said the Irishman, and he laid his hand almost affectionately on Mahony's shoulder. "Begob, he's a foine fighter is Mr. Brown."

The fat man turned to Mahony.

"So you're Mr. Brown, eh?" he demanded.

"No, I'm not," answered Mahony. "I told Barney I wasn't but he wouldn't believe me."

"True, you're not," answered the fat man roughly. "I know wot Mr. bloomin' Brown looks like; I seen 'im once when I went to the 'ouse in Jamaica Street."

Here was a chance of getting information, and Mahony took it. "What does he look like?" he demanded.

"Taller than you, and darker, with a little moustache. And 'e's got a little scar on the back of 'is 'ead," answered the fat man.

He scowled at Mahony suddenly. "Oo the 'ell are you, anyway, askin' questions?" he went on suspiciously. "Suppose you tell us a bit about yerself."

Mahony did not answer for a moment. The fat man's description of Mr. Brown had given him a sudden shock. Tall, with a little dark moustache, and a scar on the back of his hand—that description exactly fitted his friend Billy Ross.

"Well?" demanded the fat man. "Ain't you got a tongue. Wot was you doin' in that 'ouse?"

"I was sent there by a fellow named Milson; he told me that if I called there at ten Mr. Brown would give me a job," answered Mahony.

"Milson?" said the fat man. "Milson? I never 'eard of 'im. Wot 'e look like?"

Before Mahony could answer, there came three sharp raps on the outer door, followed by another rap. The man who had admitted Mahony and Barney went to the door and opened it. A man entered.

He came into the room, stopped short, and stared at Mahony and Barney with the expression of one who cannot believe the sight of his own eyes. Mahony stared back at him; there was a smile about his lips but the expression in his eyes was hard and dangerous.

"Hello, Milson," he said.

After Mahony's words there was a pause. The air of the cellar was charged with a kind of dramatic tension. Milson stood just inside the doorway, an expression of amazement and fear on his face, staring at Mahony and Barney.

Just behind him, in the doorway, was the man who had let him in. The fat man had risen; his expression was one of hard, scowling suspicion as he stared from Mahony to the man called Milson.

Mahony had moved back slightly and was standing against the wall; his expression, too, was keen and hard, and his hand had slipped into the side pocket of his coat.

During the pause, the bow-legged man also quietly entered the cellar and stood looking with some curiosity at the men in there.

The fat man was the first to speak.

"Milson?" he demanded roughly. "Wot d'yer mean, Milson? That's Mr. Lake."

"He told me his name was Milson, and he sent me down to that house in Jamaica Street to see Mr. Brown about a job," stated Mahony.

Milson, or rather Lake, made a little nervous movement with his hand. He was afraid of Mahony and the big Irishman, and to conceal his fear he tried to bluster.

"Well, and supposing I did?" he said shrilly. "I had my orders and I carried them out. And it's a nice thing you've done to let them in here. I'd like to know who's responsible for that. There's going to be some trouble about that, I can tell you."

"I sent 'em along 'ere becos the cops was arter 'em," put in the bow-legged man. "Wot else was I to do?"

"You damned fool. The cops were after them because . . ." began Milson. Then he broke off as if he had said too much.

Court Sentences Dean to Life Term

Detroit, Oct. 9 (AP).—Dayton Dean, black legion killer, received a life term for murder Thursday from a circuit judge who called Dean's victim "a martyr to the cause of civil and religious liberties."

Dean had pleaded guilty to shooting Charles A. Poole, young WPA worker, on May 12 last, on false gossip that Poole beat his wife, an expectant mother.

Seven other black legion members, who were convicted of first-degree murder for the Poole killing, will receive mandatory life sentences today. Four convicted of second-degree murder will be sentenced Saturday.

Dean, who told the judge his only motive for testifying against his co-defendants was "to see that the organization was broken up for the good of the people," said after the sentence was pronounced:

"I am glad it's over. I hope no one else gets in the same jam."

"I sent 'em along 'ere becos the cops was arter 'em," put in the bow-legged man. "Wot else was I to do?"

"You damned fool. The cops were after them because . . ." began Milson. Then he broke off as if he had said too much.

BEATS TWO WOMEN; JAILED FOR 90 DAYS

Carlisle.—Francis George, 24, of Mechanicsburg, was sentenced to 90 days in jail by Judge Fred S. Reese in the Cumberland county courts Wednesday when George entered a plea of guilty to charges of beating his wife and mother-in-law. George was arrested on Saturday night after a turbulent domestic scene in which the mother-in-law was cut on the arm by glass broken in the melee. George told the court "they had been picking on me," but admitted he had been drinking prior to the scene.

WASHINGTON COUNTY

ARRAIGNED FOR MAKING UNNECESSARY REPAIRS

Hagerstown.—Five men who operated service stations along the National highway in Allegheny county near the Washington county border, were indicted Tuesday by the Allegheny county grand jury on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses.

The men, who made allegedly unnecessary repairs to automobiles of tourists, were arrested by Lieut. Niles G. Falkenstein and Officer J.

A. White, after the officers, posing as tourists, had work done on their machines which only a short time before had been certified by reputable automobile mechanics as unnecessary.

TRAILER TRUCK IS CONSUMED BY FLAMES

Hagerstown.—A large trailer truck owned by R. L. Price and J. Fleet, concessionists at the fair, was destroyed by fire on the Fairgrounds early no Tuesday morning. Several cases of canned beef were lost in the blaze believed to have started from a short circuit or a gasoline lantern.

Flames Threaten Canadian Shrine

Ste. Anne De Beaupre, Que., Oct. 9 (AP).—Bare-headed villagers offered prayer of thanks Thursday night for the wind that protected the historic shrine of Ste. Anne De Beaupre from flames which destroyed 13 buildings with a loss of $325,000.

While a heavy smoke pall lingered above the historic building, the villagers stood on steps leading to the hillside shrine at which millions of pilgrims have prayed to be cured.

Already plans were being made to rebuild the hospital, hotels, boarding houses and frame homes that fell prey to early morning flames.

Believed to have originated from faulty wiring in a hotel kitchen the blaze swept through buildings on both sides of the highway leading to the shrine, which legend says was founded in 1650 by ship-wrecked Breton sailors, and the uncompleted Basilica, which already has cost $1,000,000.

But the wind that drove the flames through the business sections swept them away from the great stone cathedral, where more than 600,000 persons registered as visitors this year.

An Evening Thought

The silent power of books is a great power in the world; and there is a joy in reading them which those alone can know who read them with desire and enthusiasm. Silent, passive, and noiseless though they be, they are yet set in action countless multitudes, and change the order of nations.—Henry Giles.

Out of the Past

Happenings of days gone by as chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times the files reveal.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Leaving Times Staff: C. William Duncan, city editor and sporting editor of The Times for the past two years and eight months, will on Saturday sever his connection with this newspaper. He has accepted a position with Basil L. Smith Systems Incorporated of Philadelphia and will do newspaper advertising writing and publicity work for that firm.

Mr. Duncan will be succeeded as city editor of the Times by C. Richard Wolff, advertising manager, whose place has been taken by Ralph H. Rebert, of Seven Sear.

Kiddies Club Starts: The Kiddies Club opened its second year in the Red Cross home on East High street with Miss Henrietta Hersh and Miss Amelia Butt in charge. Seventeen pupils reported, among whom are John Brehm, Janet Fissel, Anna Mary Pankhouser, Anna K. Mosser, Betty Swope, Edmund Thomas, Jr., Jeanne Thompson, Catherine Gitt, Mary Pretz and Charles Shuman, pupils who attended last year. New pupils are: John Deardorff, Virginia Pankhouser, Bobby Rhodes, Aurelia Codori and Mary Katherine Moticka.

Motorists Throng Caledonia to Celebrate Good Roads Opening: A crowd estimated at between 10,000 and 15,000 gathered at Caledonia to witness the celebration which marked the formal opening of the 113 miles of permanent road which comprise the Harrisburg-Gettysburg-Chambersburg triangle which has come to be known as the finest one day tour in the east.

Joins Marine Corps: Philip Woodward, a member of the Junior class at high school, has enlisted in the United States Marine Corps and has been sent to Paris Island, South Carolina, according to a letter received by one of his friends.

Firemen Leave for Convention: Despite the drizzling rain the majority of the members of the Gettysburg Fire Department who will attend the state convention in Wilkes-Barre this week left on Monday morning at 6:30 o'clock.

These men are among those who have left for Scranton:

Tyson Tipton, Horace E. Smiley, Robert Long, Lloyd Hess, Oscar Lupp, James B. Aumen, Benton Gilbert, Percy Miller, Morris Miller, William Tawney, Donald Stall-smith, George McClellan, Russell Sterner, Walter Sterner, Thomas Hardy, B. W. Hummer, George Hayberger, Edward Swope, Meador Williams, Eugene Schriver, Rufus Bushman, Andrew Becker, James W. McDonnell, Vincent Florence, C. B. THAT LITTLE IF

If he hadn't turned the corner but had walked on straight ahead It is altogether likely that they never would have wed. If she hadn't at that minute he was nearing dropped her purse, Then his whole life had been al-tered for the better or the worse.

If we only knew the future, if we only could foresee When the stream of time is run-ning, then our lives might differ-ent be.

If when I was young and eager had a banker crossed my way, I might not be writing pieces for the paper day by day.

If I'd slept a little longer, if I'd earlier quit my bed, If I hadn't donned the new suit but had worn the old instead, If I'd only kept my temper! I can say it all day long.

If things otherwise had happened there would still be something wrong.

If I'd saved what I have squandered, if I'd spent what I have saved.

If I'd never stooped to folly but had always well behaved.

I'd have made some other blunders and still wondering I should be

If I only hadn't made them what had then become of me.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

PLEASANT DREAMS

UNDOUBTEDLY the ability to sleep soundly and well is one of the great blessings of life. It was meant that everyone should have this bless-ing. It is natural.

All the pills and concoctions in the world cannot restore healthy sleep to one. These things merely irritate and put off the day when sleep might be made natural and happy.

Sleep is controlled from the mind. If the body becomes ill, then the mind is given double duty. It is our attitude of mind, and the way we control it, that has more to do with a healthy body and restful sleep than anything else.

If you go to your bed unhappy, or worried, the chances are that you will have broken sleep, and awake in the morning also unhappy and wor-ried. No matter how difficult the day has been, or how irritating the problems, determine to shut them out before you retire for your night of sleep.

The last hours of a day are the most important, for they may be so filled with retrospect, the recalling of happy memories, or the reviewing of important things achieved during the day. I have found that reading from some inspiring book, as a daily habit, just before my bed time, gives me a grand sleep.

Rest and sleep are so important. This bodily machine demands, and deserves, far better treatment than any mechanical machine, yet a man who would not think of abusing his fine car, or his printing press, or his watch, relentlessly drives his own bodily machine. No wonder it cracks before its time.

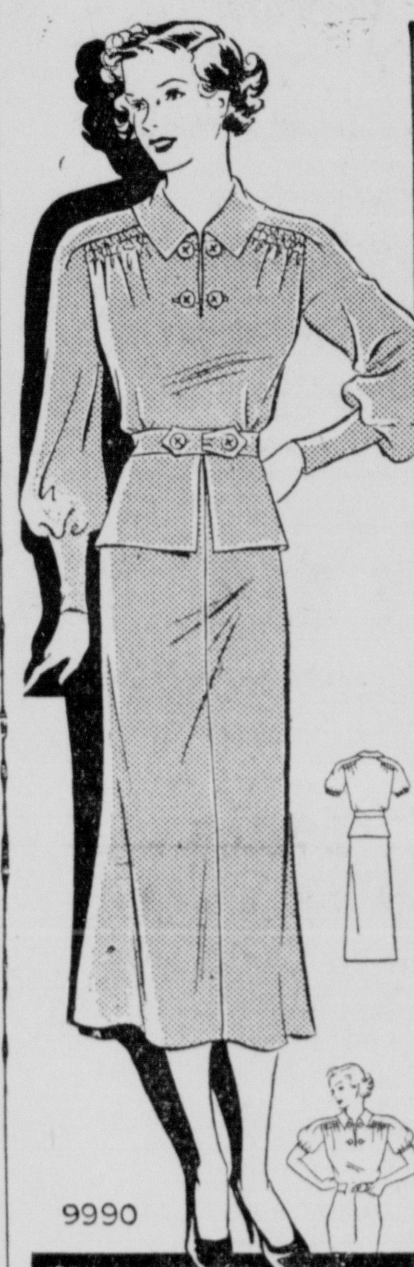

Strange how the most important things in life are thrust aside, and minimized, for gains that blot out everything else in the end!

That old adage—"Early to bed and early to rise, makes men healthy, wealthy and wise," ought never to go out of fashion as a code for happi-ness.

Detachable Peplum Adds Surprise Note To Marian Martin Frock

PATTERN 9990

Prize it as "exclusively yours"—this captivating Marian Martin frock, for its distinctive touches, and unusual accents make it a wardrobe special for all Fall and Winter. And there's a gay surprise in that jaunty peplum you've been admiring, for if you desire a smart, one-piece frock, simply detach the peplum, and there you are! One-piece, or two-piece effect—they're both yours in this one easy pattern. There's nothing at all to the bit of shirring either side the bodice, and the choice is yours whether sleeves shall be short or long. Sheer wool voile, color-ful crepe or satin would be ideal for this easy to make frock. Com-plete diagrammed Marian Martin sew chart included.

Pattern 9990 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4 yards 39-inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and style number.

These Marian Martin Princess Lines Are Easy To Cut

PATTERN 9067

Here's a frock that's young in line, gay in designs, and out to meet the demands of a busy life with smart-ness and dispatch. It's one that's never so easy to make, too, for see those straight-to-the-hem panels, all cut in one piece. Shoulder yoke fits without a wrinkle, sleeves stand out smartly at the top, while the con-vertible neckline may be worn either opened or fitting snugly at the throat. Wouldn't the belted version be smart made up in a novelty sheer wool, say, with angora stripes or in a pretty cotton tweed, jersey or wool crepe. The unbelted version would be both smart and dressy in velveteen, soft synthetic, or satin. Complete, diagrammed Marian Mar-tin sew chart included.

Pattern 9067 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 2 1/2 yards 54-inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and style number.

CUBS GIVE WARNEKE FOR COLLINS AND PARMELEE

Chicago, Oct. 9 (AP).—Owner Phil K. Wrigley wasn't fooling when he told Manager Charley Grimm to trade any or all of his Chicago Cubs in seeking "punch and color" for 1937.

He proved it Thursday by approv-ing the trading of one of his greatest stars, Lannie Warneke, stout-heart-ed top hand of the Cub hurling corps since 1932, to the St. Louis Cardinals for Jim (Ripper) Collins, slug-ging first baseman, and Leroy (Tar-zan) Parmelee, strapping right-handed pitcher.

Says Other Deals Brewing

The deal, first big blast of the ma-jor league bartering season, was just a starter in Wrigley's plans for a sweeping shakeup, it was indicated at the Cub offices. Charles (Boots) Weber, secretary-business manager of the club, said other deals were brewing, but mentioned only one, negotiations with the New York Giants for Outfielder Hank Leiber.

Reports also were current that Captain Woody English, Grimm's in-field "insurance," and the veteran Gabby Hartnett, a great favorite of Club fans, will be used for trading bait.

Only dire need of a first baseman to replace young Phil Cavaretta could have induced him to part with Warneke, Grimm told Wrigley in making the final deal. He said he offered the Cardinals, whose lack of pitching strength caused them to fade during the stretch drive in the National League race, every other hurler on the staff. The Cardinals, however, insisted on Warneke, and Grimm, determined to get Collins, yielded.

Grimm said he "hated to part with Warneke," and lauded the lean Ar-kansan as a "great pitcher and a loyal, faithful player." He said, however, that he believed Parmelee should win "eighteen or twenty games for the Cubs."

Both clubs were pleased with the

PUBLIC SALE

OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE

TAKE NOTICE that in pursuance of an Order of the Orphan's Court of Adams County, issued on the 28th day of August, A. D. 1936, the undersigned Administratrix of the estate of Charles E. Shultz, late of Cumberland Township, Adams County, Pennsylvania, deceased, will offer at public auction upon the premises, on Saturday, the 31st day of October, A. D. 1936, at 1:30 o'clock P. M., the following described valuable real estate, to-wit:—

An improved tract of land situ-ated two and one-half miles West of Gettysburg, fronting 50 feet on the North side of the Lincoln highway, and extending 200 feet to the North, adjoining lands now or formerly of Paul G. Newman on the West, North and East, and improv-ed with a two and one-half story frame dwelling house and out-buildings.

At the same time and place the following personal property will be disposed of at public auction, to-wit:—

Trunk, pictures, clothes chest, two porch chairs, cot, three smooth-ing irons, 2 lamps, small counter scales, set of butchering tools, paper rack, three guns, stand, Vic-trola and records, 18 chairs, two dressers and two wash stands, three 9x12 rugs, kitchen table, clock, lot of dishes, ten gallon crocks, two wash tubs, lot of fruit jars, jugs, barrel, 50 feet water hose, wood box, lantern, grind stone, two ladders, two lawn mowers, single cultivator, scythe, five rakes, two forks, five shovels, three picks, two mattocks, garden hoe, set of carpenter tools, hedge clipper, wheel-barrow, two axes, hand corn-sheller, cross-cut saw.

The terms and conditions of sale will be made known at the time and place of sale.

deal. The Cardinals got a much-needed pitcher to team up with the great Dizzy Dean and Brother Paul Dean—if the latter regains form—to round out a potentially powerful "big three."

The Cubs obtained a fine fielding first baseman and a power hitter, the lack of which probably cost them the title they won in 1935.

CRUSHED TO DEATH BY ELEPHANT'S FOOT

Beaumont, Texas, Oct. 9 (AP).—Lee Roberti, of Springfield, Massa-chusetts, was crushed to death Thursday beneath the feet of Trilby, one-eyed elephant with the Barnum and Bailey and Ringling Brothers circuses.

Witnesses said the elephant start-led when Roberti approached her to put a collar over her head, grab-bed him with her trunk, threw him against the wall of the elephant car and when he fell to the floor placed her foot on his head.

Lawrence Davis, head elephant trainer, said Roberti did not speak to the elephant before approaching her. Davis explained that elephants sleep standing up and that when workmen enter the cars they are taught to speak to the beasts to wake them up before approaching them.

BABE FALLS 9 FT. INTO WELL; TUNNEL SAVES HIM

Menomonic, Wis., Oct. 9 (AP).—Rescued as he was sinking in the muck of an abandoned well shaft, twenty-months-old Noel Ulrich ap-parently was recovering Thursday from shock and exposure.

Noel fell into a nine foot shaft left by well diggers on the farm of his father, John Ulrich, near Connorsville. The hole was only ten inches across, too small for a rescuer to go down after him.

As Noel slowly sank deeper into the mud, 100 men worked in five-minute shifts to cut an adjoining shaft from which they could tun-nel to the child. After three hours, they reached the child as the mud and water oozed up around his chin. Noel apparently was little the worse for his experience.

GERMANS DENY RUSS CHARGES ON AID TO WAR

Foreign Office Blames Soviet Attempt to Save "Comintern Venture."

Berlin, Oct. 9 (AP).—The German foreign office Thursday night attacked the soviet demarche in London as an attempt to save a "Comintern venture" in Spain.

A foreign office statement said that the soviet government, by throwing its weight against the Spanish fascists, hoped "to rescue the revolutionary capital invested in Spain by the comintern."

"The true soviet motive for an offensive became clear," a foreign office spokesman said, "if one considers frankly the expressed disillusionment over the fact that the cause of the Spanish popular front—despite support given it—is not making the military progress hoped for in Moscow."

A spokesman expressed the foreign office's view as believing that the powers had at last been successful in localizing the Spanish conflict, but that Moscow's move, "which thinly veiled a threat of official intervention in Spain," created danger of the very complications which the non-intervention agreement was designed to prevent.

A spokesman expressed astonishment that the soviet union, "of all powers," should feel itself competent to appear in the role of a de-fouler.

It was, he said, "hardly sincere" that soviet Russia should "accuse other states of doing what it itself has long been doing."

"The whole world," he declared, "understands perfectly Moscow's interest in the bolshevization of Spain."

Earlier in the day the propaganda ministry emphatically denied charges that Germany is delivering war material to the Spanish insurgents.

"We have adhered strictly to the non-intervention principle," a communiqué asserted. "We have delivered neither airplanes or any other such materials mentioned in the Russian statement."

BULLETS SEEK FIRST VICTORY

Local Eleven Has Never Beaten Lafayette; Both Teams Seek Initial Wins.

Two victory-hungry football teams will clash at Easton Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock when the Gettysburg college Bullets and the Lafayette Leopards tangle for the first time in 25 years.

The Bullets last met Lafayette in 1911 and dropped a 36-0 decision. Previous to that time the teams opposed each other five times and in each instance Lafayette was the victor, the Bullets having failed to score a single point.

Lafayette has dropped both of its games played to date. In the opening tilt of the season the Leopards were the victims of a stunning 19-3 upset at the hands of Muhlenberg. Last week the powerful University of Pennsylvania eleven ground out a 35-0 decision over the Easton outfit.

Last Saturday the Bullets were given a surprise defeat by Juniata. Various reasons have been given for the upset, lack of condition, overconfidence, etc. The Bullets were forced to enter the Juniata game with but three weeks' practice, while other teams usually require four, five or even six weeks' preliminary training. Injuries kept a flock of "Hen" Bream's candidates glued to the bench last week, but several have recovered during the last week, and will be available Saturday.

Coach Ernie Nevers is expected to shake up his line-up this week. Included in the backfield will be Mamma, of Hanover, a former Gettysburg academy star.

The Bullet line-up will probably be: Serfass and Fish or Wolfgang, ends; Herbert and Staubitz, tackles; Walker and Wagner, guards; Utz, center; Cook, quarterback; Bast and Shadle, halfbacks, and Bucklen, fullback.

FILM STAR'S NEW HOME DONE IN ITALIAN

London (AP).—The decorations in film star Jack Hulbert's new home show a marked Italian influence.

Wherever possible, there are wrought-iron grilles, and most of the fireplaces are elaborately carved. Heavy brocade claret-colored curtains, claret plush upholstery, and a claret carpet give the morning room an atmosphere of warmth.

The modern idea of central heating is planned so that it blends perfectly with the old-world style of decorations.

The only modern room in the house is the study which has beige painted walls.

FOUR TONS OF BEEF

Corvallis, Ore. (AP).—Frank Ramsey, 227 pounds, is the heaviest man on the Oregon State squad. John Alexander, 147, is the lightest. The squad is 864 years old. If the grid-ders were stretched end-to-end, they would reach 247 feet 3 inches. The squad weighs 7,706 pounds—almost four tons. The average weight of the grid-ders is 183½ pounds.

FIRE RAGES AGAIN IN OHIO PENITENTIARY

Fire raged fiercely for a few minutes in an old mill building in the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus, recalling the blaze that cost 320 lives at the prison in 1930. The fire was brought quickly under control after about 120 prisoners were marched safely from the buildings, from which smoke is seen pouring. (Associated Press Photo)

9,000 SEE MARRIAGE AT YORK COUNTY FAIR

York, Oct. 9 (AP).—Before 9,000 persons, an audience which packed the grandstand at the York county fair grounds Thursday night, Miss Myrtle M. Golden, Spring Grove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Golden, became the bride of Clarence H. Dubs, of Hanover.

The ceremony was performed by the pastor of Glenville Baptist church, Havre-de-Grace, Maryland, the Rev. Joseph T. Baker. The public wedding had been the matter of a protest lodged with the fair society signed by sixty ministers, which was put in the society's files. Sheriff John Billett, during the day and evening received many complaints of operations of pickpockets, but none was detected.

HIS ERROR—BY 20 MILES, IN TRAFFIC TAG PROTEST

Nampa, Idaho (AP).—Lewis Williams, state commissioner of public welfare, dashed up to the Nampa police judge's desk to protest the appearance of a traffic-law violation ticket on the windshield of his automobile.

The judge looked at the yellow slip and chuckled:

"You got that from the police in Boise and drove down here (20 miles) with it on your windshield."

Slashes Wrists

A man giving his name as J. D. Wilson (above) of Atlanta, Ga., slashed his wrists in front of the White House in Washington. Bleeding profusely, he entered the lobby of the executive offices and asked for an appointment with Marvin McIntyre, secretary to the President. He told police he was unemployed and dependent. (Associated Press Photo)

Two days routine methods, use of the radio and teletype messages had failed.

Sam Jones, negro janitor at the station, had an idea. He tied a rope on the leg of one of the pigeons, asking the owner to come and get the other bird, and turned it loose.

Two hours later, the owner, a 12-year-old boy, appeared.

George Varoff, San Francisco's record pole vaulter, will rest from sports until Christmas. He is anxious to catch up in his studies at the University of Oregon, where he is a sophomore.

TOWNSEND BULLETIN

Gettysburg, with its general appeal to tourists, is a logical center for strong Townsend support. Where tourists are now spending thousands, they will, under the Townsend plan, spend tens of thousands. Farmers will be pushed to provide the choice foods demanded. Since this demand will be all over the country, and not just locally, all farmers will be equally pushed to provide the extra products demanded by a full purse. Competition will prevent inflation, demand will control the price.

THOUSANDS SEE SHIP ON ROCKS

Cliff Is Grandstand for San Francisco Crowds Watching Freighter.

San Francisco, Oct. 9 (AP).—A shipwreck within a stone's throw of a famous San Francisco landmark drew thousands of persons Thursday to the south shore of the Golden Gate where the freighter Ohioan, wedged between two rocks, apparently was fighting a losing battle against the pounding sea.

The ship crashed onto the fog-hidden rocks while trying to grope her way through the gate heads. Coast Guardsmen threw three lines to her from a 250-foot cliff which offers an ideal view of the sea and the rocky shore.

Policemen were called out to handle the crowds. Within full view of the wrecked ship newsboys sold papers telling the story of her plight.

Spectator Falls Dead

Robert Dodd, 55, a spectator, fell dead of a heart attack. Mrs. Elizabeth Knowles, 52, suffered a broken ankle in a fall. Miss Bessie Hines, 23, slipped twenty feet down the cliff, but caught herself, at the cost of a fractured ankle.

High tide came and went without budging the ship, but her crew of 52 remained aboard.

Tom MacFarlane, port pilot for the American Hawaiian line, operators of the vessel, rode ashore on the breeches buoy. He reported there were several holes in the hull and that the ship was being rocked by swells.

Coast guardsmen reported three holds flooded and twenty feet of water in the engine room. They

DRIP! DRIP!

A horrible method of medieval torture was to strap the victim on his back with the upturned face resting directly under a small drain over which water dripped continually, a drop at a time striking the unfortunate directly on the forehead. After a week of such torture the victim usually became insane. Does your nose drip—drip. Use Bender's Green Cold Capsules.

Maroons and Mechanicsburg In First Conference Tilt

Gettysburg and Mechanicsburg high schools will inaugurate their 1936 Southern Pennsylvania interscholastic football conference season at Mechanicsburg Saturday afternoon. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Mechanicsburg, one of the pre-season favorites for conference honors, has compiled an impressive record so far this season. The Maroons and Gray team has defeated

SIMULATED HURRICANE SWAMPS RADIO STATION

Royal Oak, Mich. (AP).—A "simulated hurricane" was a lot of fun for the boy scouts, but provided only headaches for the staff of a local radio broadcasting station.

Carefully surrounding the announcement with an explanation of its nature, the station broadcast notice of the "simulated hurricane" and ordered a prearranged scout mobilization "to care for the injured."

Scouts responded promptly; so did careless listeners who swamped the station's telephones with calls in belief a real storm had struck.

Steve Owen has been coach of the New York Football Giants for four seasons. His team won the National league title and the Ed Thorp memorial trophy in 1934, and won the Eastern crown in each of the past three seasons.

Notice to Landowners OF ADAMS COUNTY

The only legal way to keep hunters off your land is to give notice publicly that your land is closed to them.

Usually hundreds of landowners in the county take advantage of this Gettysburg Times offer to give warning to hunters.

The Gettysburg Times will publish its annual trespass list October 15th, warning hunters to stay off lands.

This list will be published frequently throughout the hunting season.

The cost is only $1.00 for the entire season. If you want your land properly posted just drop us a card to that effect or call us on the telephone, giving name and location of your property.

The Times also can furnish trespass cards at the rate of six for twenty-five cents, or five cents each.

Brooklyn, N. Y. Oct. 9 (AP).—Jack Sjlison, 31, an apartment house superintendent, Thursday shot himself without a gun in what police describe as an attempted suicide note in violation of the Sullivan law.

Sjlison, police said had been celebrating since the take-off of a fellow-Swede, Kurt Bjorkvall, three days ago, so Wednesday night his wife and infant daughter packed up and left.

Thursday he retired to the collar armed with six rifle shells and a lead pipe. Pointing one end of the pipe at his head and inserting a shell in the other end, he pounded the percussion cap with a carpenter's center point. He is in the hospital in a serious condition.

H. J. MARCH

TAKE NOTICE

The Board of Game Commissioners of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania at a regular meeting held the first day of July 1936, by resolution lawfully adopted pursuant to Section 569 of the Game Law, and in exercise of powers conferred thereby, reduced or extended the open seasons and game limits on certain game animals, game birds and fur-bearing animals as below indicated.

CHANGES IN OPEN SEASONS:

The open season on Wild Turkeys (see counties closed), Ruffed Grouse, Bobwhite Quail, Gambel Quail, Valley Quail, Blackbirds, (Gray, Black and Fox), shall be November 6 to November 26.

Squirrels, Red, November 6 to August 15, 1937; Raccoons, all counties, November 6 to December 31; Bear, over one year old, November 23 to November 26; Deer, male with horns, November 1 to one antler, December 1 to December 12; Minks, Opossums and Skunks, November 6 to February 28, 1937; Muskrats, Agriculture, from 1 to March 15, 1937; Beavers, March 1 to March 15, 1937.

Hunting small game, except waterfowl and Coon, and setting traps for fur-bearing animals, before 9 A. M. is unlawful on November 6, the first day of the general open season, and the first day of the muskrat and beaver seasons.

CHANGES IN BAG LIMITS:

Ruffed Grouse, 10; Ruffed Grouse, daily bag reduced from 2 to 1 and season limit from 15 to 8; Bobwhite Quail, Gambel Quail, Valley Quail, daily bag reduced from 8 to 4 and the season limit from 25 to 20; Rabbits (Cottontail), daily bag reduced from 10 to 5 and season limit from 30 to 24; Bear, by hunting party, daily and season bag reduced from 4 to 1; Raccoons, daily bag reduced from 2 to 1; Small game possession limit two (2) days' bag.

And did by said resolution adopt the same regulations governing the taking of migratory game birds during 1936 as promulgated by Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of the Department of Agriculture, pursuant to a proclamation of the President of the United States, except where the Pennsylvania Game Law, 1932, amended, and the resolutions of the Board thereunder provide additional protection. Detailed information governing the taking of migratory game birds is published and cured from the Game Commission, Harrisburg, upon request.

And did by said resolution adopt the following regulations as to the taking of muskrats and beavers:

1. That muskrats and beavers shall be taken by trap only, and restricted by the following additional regulations:

2. Trapping methods, identification and visitation of traps shall be in accordance with the provisions of Article VI of the Game Law.

3. Only persons who are bonafide residents of Pennsylvania, holding a lawfully issued resident hunter's license, shall trap beavers; except that owners of land actually residing thereon and cultivating such lands, and members of their families residing thereon, may trap beavers thereon if a salaried Game Protector of the Commission and a permit from the Commission has been issued to such person. It shall be the duty of each trapper to report the number of beavers trapped by him to any salaried Game Protector of the Commission, and to have such animals tagged by such officer on or before March 25, 1937. Such tags shall remain attached to the beaver skins until they have been tagged and made up into commercial fur.

6. It shall be unlawful for any person to have in his possession, or to export or green or raw beaver pelts, before March 1, 1937, or after the 25th day of March, 1937, which have not been properly tagged by an officer of the Commission.

The Board also at the same time and with the same resolution closed the season throughout the state on the following:

Hares (Snowshoe or Varying), Hungarian and Chukar Partridges, Reeves Pheasants, Otters, Elk, Antelope Deer and Cub Bears; and Wild Turkeys in the Counties of Berks, Bradford, Bucks, Cameron, Carbon, Clarion, Clearfield, Dauphin, Elk, Fayette, Forest, Jefferson, Lackawanna, Lebanon, Lehigh, Luzerne, Lycoming, Monroe, Northampton, Pike, Potter, Schuylkill, Tioga, Warren, Wayne, Wyoming and York.

Said resolution is on file in the Office of the Board and notice thereof

QUINS IN NEW MOVIE DRAMA

Success of Picture Is Up to Quintuplets Says Movie Director.

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—Director Norman Tauger says he hopes the Dionne quintuplets will take some of the blame if their new picture fails short of expectations.

"—because," he says, "they wrote their own scenes."

Tauger, who became labeled a "child director" when he made "Skiy" and brought Jackie Cooper to fame, takes the name definitely with "Reunion," starring the world's five most famous babies. Not that he minds. "Kids? I love 'em," says, and means it.

Tauger headed a company of actors and technicians who recently returned from Callender, Ontario, after filming scenes involving the quintuplets. For 19 days they worked on the shots, approximately three reels, which will represent the sisters in the film. But under orders they could work only one hour a day, and then with lights designed to spare the ten famous eyes. These scenes will be matched in the studio with others involving the principals, Jean Hersholt (again the country doctor), Dorothy Peterson, again the nurse, Rochelle Hudson, Robert Kent, Slim Summerville and John Qualen, who repeats as Papa Dionne.

Took $1,700 In Toys
As one who really knows children, Tauger took with him $1,700 worth of gadgets and toys ranging from woolly dogs to life-sized pony carts. All the toys passed "health inspection" by Dr. Allen Roy Dafeo, the quint's medical guardian, before being given to them.

When the company arrived, only two "shots" were in the script as "musts." The rest was to be left to the youngsters. One of the "musts" was to show the five riding in the pony carts, the other was to have them climbing into their beds.

The first was easy. Although the ponies were the first large animals in their experience, the children took to them at once. Getting them all into bed was different, until Tauger remembered his own child took naps in the afternoon. The quints protested vigorously when they tried to shoot the scene in the morning, but bedded down docilely at their regular naptime.

Quints 'Wrote' Best Shot
Immune to camera fright because so often photographed, the quints are difficult subjects yet for a movie feature because, like all two-year-olds, they follow their own inclinations. Dan Clark, the cameraman, opined that next year five cameras would be needed to follow their movements.

Tauger says the quints themselves "wrote" one of his prize scenes. Someone left a small hand camera on the nursery floor, and while nobody was looking Marie (Tauger calls her the comedienne of the group) tore it apart. They got a shot of this, and built up a "gag" showing Hersholt leaving the camera there with remarks about the fine pictures he had taken.

If "Reunion" is successful, Tauger would like to do another quintuplet film. He would like to learn, however, to tell the quints apart.

MAN PESTERS AUTHOR, FLEES UNDER THREATS

Oslo, Norway (AP).—Knut Hamsun, 77, literary Nobel prize winner, is still a powerful man.

Out for a walk, on the outskirts of Oslo, Hamsun was pestered by an admirer who asked if he could walk by Hamsun's side. The novelist refused, and when the man still continued to annoy him, Hamsun walked up to a policeman and asked:

"Am I allowed to give that man a thrashing?"

The policeman gave a smiling consent but before Hamsun could reach his "admirer," the man had taken to his heels.

Why BANK BALANCES Should Go Up Before TEMPERATURES Drop

When the mercury begins to pal around with the bottom of the bulb, and the window-panes are frosted and the highways are heaped with white—
You find yourself faced with some very pressing money problems. You have to wear more clothes. You eat more food. Your entertainment costs more. You have holiday presents and festivities to pay for. There is something to spend for in all four directions.

The thing to do is to have a bank account big enough and deep enough to take care of all your winter expenses. Begin to build it up now.
